Texas Instruments recognizes top suppliers with award for exceptional service and support

SEA program honors supplier contributions that have been vital to TI customer success

DALLAS (April 8, 2008) – Texas Instruments Incorporated (NYSE: TXN) (TI) today announced 15 recipients of the company's 2007 Supplier Excellence Award (SEA). The winners, selected from across TI's worldwide supplier base of over 14,000 companies, were evaluated on a number of areas, including cost, environmental responsibility, technology, responsiveness, assurance of supply and quality – along with overall performance and contributions that help TI better serve its customers.

“Our suppliers play a vital role in TI's commitment to solving customer problems, and the SEA program is an opportunity for us to recognize those across our global supply chain that meet the highest standards of excellence,” said Rob Simpson, vice president, Worldwide Procurement and Logistics, TI. “We're very proud of our SEA recipients and appreciate the continued value they deliver to TI and its customers.”

The 2007 TI Supplier Excellence Award winners include:
